

A close-up photograph of a high-voltage electrical connection. A thick, vertical metal busbar is secured with multiple bolts to a base. Below the busbar, a braided metal cable is visible. The entire assembly is mounted on a red safety floor. In the background, there are other electrical components, including a metal frame and some blue and yellow cables. The image is framed by a black border.

Neutral

Ground